

Advanced Human-Computer Interaction

Topic 2: Reading Effectively

slido

Please download and install the Slido app on all computers you use

Join at slido.com
#2774843

 Start presenting to display the joining instructions on this slide.

slido

Please download and install the Slido app on all computers you use

How did you choose your first paper?

① Start presenting to display the poll results on this slide.

A Quick Scan	Read Majority of Content	Fully Read Paper
Title Abstract Introduction (optional) Conclusions Make a decision to continue reading Can you identify the following: Category What type of paper is it? Context What papers are related to it? How was the problem analysed? Correctness Are the assumptions valid? Contributions What are the main claims? Clarity Is the paper well put together?	Ignore technical details such as proofs Examine figures and tables Make comments, note key points Note useful references Decide if you need to continue reading the paper	Understand the paper enough so that you could re-implement the research What future work could there be?

AUTHORITY AND CURRENCY	RELEVANCE AND COVERAGE	SUMMARISING AND CONTRIBUTION
What are the author’s qualifications?	Who is the intended audience of this work?	How does the article relate to your topic?
What is the authors experience?	Does the information use simplified terminology or specialised jargon?	An abstract will provide a concise introduction to the paper (100 to 200 words)
Is the author associated with a relevant organisation?	Does the source provide a balanced viewpoint?	Conclusion will identify main outcomes
Why or how is this person considered an expert?	Is it opinion, fact, or propaganda?	What is the main argument or proposition of the article often detailed in the introduction?
What other material has the author written about this topic?	Does it contain advertising? Of what type? Does any advertising appear to influence the content?
What year was the item published?
Is there a more recent edition of this source?

- Underline and highlight points as you read
- Take notes
- Annotate article with queries, points you want to ensure are addressed
- Major claims by the authors might make nice quotes (or paraphrase) for your summary

1. What are the publication details?
2. What is a 1 sentence description of the paper?
3. What are the important concepts and ideas?
4. Are there other concepts you need to understand?
5. What are the claimed contributions?
6. How well is each claimed contribution supported?
7. What assumptions are made in respect to claims?
8. What are the threats to validity?
9. What future work might be based on the paper?
10. What important references should be followed up?
11. Are there other references that might be interesting?
12. Is there anything else of interest in the paper?
13. What other thoughts are sparked by the paper?
14. How is this paper relevant?

Think Pair Share:

Select ONE reading method and apply this to your selected article

OR

Select ONE reading method and apply this to second reading listed in Module 5 on Canvas

1. Start with a set of relevant articles that you're familiar with BEFORE searching
2. Look at the synonyms and keywords listed
3. Scan the abstract
4. When you find a relevant article
 1. Look for information about the author – what further research have they done on your topic?
 1. Google Scholar, Author websites
 2. What articles does your article cite?
 1. If the references are linked, look at where the author drew inspiration BEFORE writing
 3. Who is citing your article?
 1. Google Scholar and HCI databases may link to articles written AFTER your article